

The life of an Intern in the Dinex Group

Frederik

Student: Global management and manufacturing
Internship: Dinex Group
Department: Supply chain & Procurement

Supplier segmentation

One of my main tasks was to score and segment all the suppliers in Dinex. This was to give an overview and categorization of which suppliers Dinex needed to spend most time on and which suppliers should be running more automatically. This project was done by working together with purchasing departments all around the group. Together with that, my theoretical background was put well to use in terms of creating a framework and overview which would display exactly what was needed.

Projects

During my internship was I involved in 2 mayor projects. The first one was to score and segment all our suppliers. The second one was to assist in moving parts of the warehouse in Denmark to our facility in Germany.

You will be handed responsibility

As an intern in Dinex I have been handed a lot of responsibility. Both in terms managing my own projects but also assisting bigger projects.

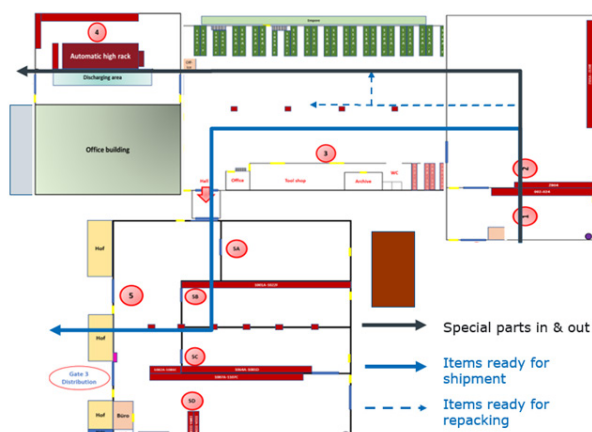

One thing I really experienced during my time as an intern, was that the road from solving a problem or finishing a project until it would be realized and implemented in the company is really short.

Warehouse transfer

The biggest project I was involved in was the warehouse transfer from Denmark to Germany. Here my main task was to create a layout solution for the new warehouse. This was a really big and fun task, as you have to consider many variables that all are contradicting each other.

As the project was to be implemented in our German facility was it important to coordinate and work together with my German colleagues as they also had a lot of knowledge that really benefitted this project.

Here all my skills, both personal and theoretical, was put to a test. But there is no doubt that this has been the best learning process I have been through at Dinex.

Why choose Dinex?

As an intern in Dinex you will be working really international and cross functional. Therefore, being outspoken is definitely something you will learn together with understanding cultural differences. You will be working together with really experienced colleagues which always are ready to help. So, if you look for a international company which is operating within a complex and big industry and believe in having "freedom with responsibility", then Dinex is definitely the right choice.
